

Haluska Testifies Dent, Taylor Offered Him $750 Bribe

Senator's Charges Are Denied

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. John J. Haluska (D-Cambria) said yesterday two fellow senators offered him $750 and 50 State jobs to vote for the discarded income tax proposal.

He said they were Sen. John H. Dent (Westmoreland), Democratic floor leader, and Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (Dauphin), Senate president pro tempore and Republican State chairman.

Dent and Taylor denied under oath Haluska's sworn charges aired at a three-hour hearing by a special 10-man Senate investigating committee.

An immediate growth of the hearing was the firing of Haluska as Senate minority whip, a post equivalent to assistant Democratic floor leader. The Democratic Senate caucus voted unanimously in Haluska's absence to replace him with Sen. Frank W. Ruth (D-Berks).

"That just shows you the smallness of those people," was the senator's only reaction.

Sen. Albert R. Pechan (R-Armstrong), a member of the probe unit, injected the possibility that conflicting statements at the hearing could provide grounds for perjury prosecutions.

"The conflicting statements indicate that perjury was committed here," he told a newsmen.

Chairman James S. Berger (R-Potter) said his committee will review the long pages of testimony and make a report to the Senate next week.

Haluska satisfied a sensation-hunting throng which crowded in to the Senate caucus room by his testimony that Dent served as an intermediary for Taylor in approaching him with the offers to vote for the income tax.

Acceptance of the bribes, he said, would have enabled him to "sit pretty for the balance of my life."

The 49-year-old lawmaker related a series of incidents leading up to the money and patronage offers, punctuating his remarks by banging the table for emphasis.

"Senator Dent told me that should I go along with the State Income tax, I would receive 50 State jobs under my control without outside sponsorship," he said.

On another occasion, the Cambria county lawmaker said, Dent came to him with a $750 check in the presence of Taylor if he would withdraw his opposition to the income tax.

Dent, a member of the investigating committee, stepped down and calmly declared: "That's a fabrication."

Taylor echoed Dent's denials and electrified spectators by testifying that Haluska at one time asked Gov. John S. Fine, "What's in it for me?" if he supported the income tax.

On both the $750 money and patronage offers, Taylor said: "Dent never approached me about anything like that. I've never offered anything like that."

Haluska said Dent first approached him in the Senate chamber last July and quoted the Democratic leader as saying he was empowered to make an offer of 50 State jobs. Haluska added that he thought Taylor first authorized the patronage move.

Patronage is a political term used to describe the practice of requiring a prospective State employee to have a sponsor before going on the payroll. Most of the Commonwealth's 50,000 workers are politically sponsored.

The $750 money offer, he said, was made at an August 5 meeting in the Hershey hotel among seven Democratic senators, the Governor and several top Republican officials.

At the time, Haluska testified, only he, Taylor and Dent were still in the hotel meeting room.

"Dent walked up and said: 'Johnny, may I see you for a moment?'"

Haluska said Dent then asked him the name of his insurance agency.

"I told him," Haluska said, "and then asked why?"

"He said tomorrow morning Harvey (Taylor) will send you a check for $700."

Haluska added: "I said, 'let me speak to the gentleman.' Dent said, 'Johnny, he can't speak to you. Let me handle this.'"

Haluska said Dent then walked over to Taylor, they looked at the check and Dent came back to him and said he was mistaken, the check was for $750.

"I was told then my insurance would be taken care of and that the first stipend would come through Monday morning," said Haluska.

Haluska has an insurance agency among other interests in his hometown of Patton.

Loyalty Oath Bill Up For Final Vote

Harrisburg (AP)—Packed galleries of proponents and opponents of the controversial loyalty oath bill last night watched the House debate more changes to the oft-rewritten measure.

The amendments were offered by both Republicans and Democrats to affect various changes in a measure which has become one of the hottest issues of the marathon 1951 session.

Representatives of teachers' church and veterans' organizations spent much of the day buttonholing lawmakers on their stand.

Republican-sponsored amendments were adopted by a voice vote, placing the controversial measure in a position for a final vote today.

The Democratic amendments were voted down, 95-92.

The Senate-passed bill requires all public employees and elected officials to take an oath that they are not members of a subversive organization or suffer dismissal.

It was amended to give the right of cross-examination and presentation of evidence at administration hearings to the persons accused of subversive activities.

In addition, the changes struck out a section requiring supervisors to use a list of subversive organizations compiled by the U. S. attorney general in determining the loyalty of their employees. The U. S. supreme court recently ruled such a list unconstitutional.

Court Rules Against Paper

Washington (AP)—The Supreme court ruled yesterday that the Loran, Ohio, Journal broke the Sherman anti-trust act by refusing to sell space to advertisers who also wanted to use a rival radio station.

The vote was 7-0 to uphold a decision by U. S. District Judge Emory B. Freed of Cleveland.

In other actions, the court: Agreed to review a lower court decision that a "released time program" for religious instruction in New York City public schools does not violate the Constitution. More than 2,000,000 youngsters in this country take part in similar programs.

Refused to permit the Justice department to ask a Federal district court in New York if the department could drop its original perjury charge against William M. Remington, former government official who had been accused of having Communist connections. The department wanted to drop the indictment and try Remington on a new one.

Robbery Victim Gets Bill For Burglars' Tools

Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Bowling alley proprietor Ted Sieler's safe was cracked and robbed of $600 on Nov. 6.

Yesterday he got a bill for the burglars' tools found by police at the scene.

Checking a department store's invoice, Sieler found each tool listed and charged to him had been used to open his strong box.

Cooperative Action Helps Churches, Leaders Advised

Buck Hill Falls—Handsome dividends in terms of both money and souls can be gained by churches through intelligent and active cooperation, a group of church leaders was told here yesterday.

A panel of experts on church extension cited numerous illustrations at the first assembly on the Division of Home Missions of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA to prove that "cooperation pays off."

One of the panel members, Dr. William D. Powell, general secretary of the Philadelphia Council of Churches, showed the "value" advantages to be gained by Protestantism in an inter-denominational approach to new housing developments.

He reported that J. W. Calbreath, builder of Fairless Hills, 5,000 unit housing development in Bucks county, Pa., was dismayed when some 70 denominations flooded his office with appeals for church sites.

Learning of the builder's plight, the strategy committee of the Philadelphia Council of Churches,

White House Frowns On JCC Float Showing Mr. Truman, Mink Coats And Deep Freezers

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—A White House frowned severely and the Tournament of Roses association said an emphatic "no."

Such was the official reaction yesterday to a proposed float depicting President Truman playing a piano against a background of mink coats and deep freezers.

It was all the idea of the neighboring Temple City Junior Chamber of Commerce, which usually enters a humorous float in the New Year's day parade.

In Washington Presidential Secretary Joseph Short made public a telegram from Charles Morse, president of the Junior Chamber, asking if the President would object to such a float. Short said he wrote this answer to Morse:

"In reply to your telegram of December seventh, it is suggested that most people viewing a float such as proposed in your wire, would consider it in very bad taste."

Morse, in Temple City, said that since his wire was sent the Tournament of Roses association has turned down the float idea, and his organization is thinking up another one.

Ted Broadhead, manager of the tournament association, said such a float would be a "personal insult to the President."

U. N. Offers 'Give-And-Take' Proposal Covering Neutral Observers, Troop Rotation

Munsan, Korea, Wednesday, (AP)—The United Nations command today made a "give and take" proposal to the Communists in an effort to reach a speedy armistice in Korea.

Allied negotiators said they would accept Red demands for behind-the-lines inspection by neutral nations and two other Communist proposals if:

One—The Reds would agree to troop rotation and arms replenishment.

Two—The Reds would place neutral observers under control by a joint Allied-Red armistice commission.

The subcommittee discussing supervision of the truce recessed at 12:40 p. m. (10:40 p. m., EST, Tuesday) until 3 p. m.

The subcommittee discussing exchange of prisoners recessed at 1:10 p. m., until 3 p. m.

The U. N. command today offered to give up islands off North Korea and to yield on its demand for joint Allied-Red air observation of rear areas. Instead, neutrals would make the inspections by air.

The sweeping new Allied offers so interested the Reds that they immediately began a point-by-point discussion without asking for their usual recess for study.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner submitted the seven-point plan and told the Reds they would have to take all of it or nothing. He said the Reds could not just accept part of it.

Turner said he first gave the Communists a tongue-lashing in which he accused them of treachery by trying to gain one-sided advantages in the guise of concessions.

Turner told the Reds, "you have made no effort to compromise. You have made no effort to resolve our differences. You have conceded nothing."

His words were punctuated by the thunder of Allied artillery firing against troops in the nearby hills.

The truce teams still were far apart but there was revived hope for an armistice during the Christmas season.

Talks Split On Atomic Controls

Paris, (AP)—The Big Four powers announced yesterday an agreement on a 12-nation disarmament commission, but Russia and the West remained poles apart on the fundamental issue of atomic controls after 10 days of secret talks.

The Senate approved amendments excluding such publications and advanced the bill into position for final passage today.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Joseph J. Yrso (D-Northampton) prohibits the printing of tip sheets, bookmaking tickets and other gambling data.

Sen. A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield), who introduced the amendments, said the bill would not hamper the reporting of horse races or other types of news coverage by legitimate newspapers and magazines.

Lili St. Cyr Wins Acquittal

Beverly Hills, Calif. (AP)—Stripper Lili St. Cyr, accused of displaying herself too amply in a night club act, was acquitted yesterday of giving an indecent performance.

Ten women were on the jury of 12 which deliberated an hour and one-half before returning the verdict after a week's trial.

"This is a real victory for the profession," the statuesque Lili said as she shook hands with each of the jurors.

Still pending is the case against the man who booked her act, owner Herman Hoyer of Ciro's. But there were indications that a charge of conducting an indecent performance against him will be dropped.

Army Probes Collusion In Contract Bids

Detroit (AP)—The Army has been investigating for possible collusion between automotive producers and their suppliers on defense contract bidding, one of its top lawyers disclosed yesterday.

William L. Cary, Army deputy counsel, said "no such evidence" which would provide the basis for anti-trust action had been uncovered.

But he told a congressional subcommittee he had turned over results of the investigation to the Federal Trade commission, which looks into allegations of restraint of trade.

The subcommittee, representing the House committee on executive expenditures, came back to Detroit for a second look into activities of the Army's huge ordnance tank-automotive center—a combination procurement-tank producing enterprise. The center's former commander, Brig. Gen. David J. Crawford, was removed and transferred after disclosures by the committee last Summer that he had accepted favors from defense contractors.

Questions concerning collusion reports followed testimony that the Army had paid more than double for some items by buying replacement parts from assemblers of military vehicles instead of from sub-contractors who actually manufactured them.

It also was brought out that sometimes when such sub-contractors were asked to submit bids for replacement parts, their prices were as high as or higher than those of the assembler.

He did not name the special assistant, but said he would submit U. S. District Attorney Chauncey Trumuto in the tax prosecutions. A special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is now making an investigation of the San Francisco Internal Revenue bureau, McGrath added.

Several weeks ago the House committee complained that Trumuto had refused to cooperate with its investigator. The district attorney explained that he could not open his files to Congress without authority from the attorney general.

James G. Smyth was fired as San Francisco collector of internal revenue recently, and several of his lieutenants went out with him, all charged with irregularities.

In another development yesterday, Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap announced that the bureau is discontinuing its policy of allowing persons in serious ill health to escape prosecution for tax violations.

This policy was one of the reasons the congressmen decided to investigate the whole field of tax fraud prosecutions. Rep. King (D-Calif.), chairman of the House committee, said that some grounds for failing to prosecute tax frauds "appear to be of doubtful validity" and "appear to lend themselves to easy abuse." He cited the medical policy as an example.

Explaining Caudle's case to the King committee yesterday, McGrath said Caudle was a presidential appointee, and the attorney general could recommend termination of the appointment only if he had "real cause" to suspect Caudle's honesty or integrity.

He said he had found no cause up to the time Mr. Truman asked him to get Caudle's resignation. After studying information dug up by the House committee, the White House announced that Caudle's "outside activities" were considered incompatible with his official duties.

The Georgia senator, veteran quarterback of southern filibusters against President Truman's civil rights program, did not close the door, however, against the possibility that he might become the leader of anti-Truman forces at the Democratic nominating convention next July, as he was in 1948.

The new boost for Russell came from Senator Stennis (D-Miss), along with a broad hint that an organized Democratic revolt will rise in the south if Mr. Truman decides to run in 1952.

Other influential southerners who have spoken out for Russell include Senator Byrd (D-Va.) and Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina.

Vassar Graduate Wins $25,000 In Baking Contest

New York (AP)—A Vassar graduate who likes to cook won the $25,000 first prize yesterday in an annual baking contest with her chocolate "straight double-delight cake."

The winner's check was presented to Mrs. Samuel P. Weston of La Jolla, Calif., by Margaret Truman.

Mrs. Weston, 39, said she was greatly surprised at winning and probably would invest the money to help in educating her sons, Peter, six, and David, three.

Mrs. Weston, the former Helen Liverman of Denver, Colo., told a questioner she learned to cook as a child but never took it up seriously until she married about nine years ago.

She said her husband, a public relations man for the Solar Aircraft Co., helped her work out the receipt. Contest authorities said it was the newest thing in years, with frosting mixed in with the batter as well as on top.

McGrath Discloses HST Initiated Caudle Ouster

Indiscretions Not Condoned By Official

Washington (AP)—Attorney General McGrath disclosed yesterday that President Truman acted on his own in firing T. Lamar Caudle, and that the President had never given him detailed reasons for the action.

Caudle, a key figure in the tax probe being conducted by a House Ways and Means subcommittee, was assistant attorney general in charge of tax fraud prosecutions for the Justice department. He was ousted Nov. 16 by President Truman for "outside activities."

The attorney general told the subcommittee he held "no brief" for Caudle in the light of "indiscretions" brought out in the tax hearing, but at the same time he did not "presume to pass judgment on him."

"I like Mr. Caudle as a man—I still like him," McGrath said. "He has a great heart."

Before he left the hearing room, McGrath informed the committee that he is assigning a special assistant attorney general to take over all tax cases in the San Francisco area.

He did not name the special assistant, but said he would submit U. S. District Attorney Chauncey Trumuto in the tax prosecutions. A special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is now making an investigation of the San Francisco Internal Revenue bureau, McGrath added.

Several weeks ago the House committee complained that Trumuto had refused to cooperate with its investigator. The district attorney explained that he could not open his files to Congress without authority from the attorney general.

Attorney General McGrath

McGrath Says U. S. Attorneys Need More Pay

Washington (AP)—Some Justice department attorneys have to wash dishes in restaurants at night to eke out their salaries, Attorney General McGrath said yesterday.

It's impossible to staff the department with competent men on present pay scales if outside activities are banned, he said.

"I believe the time has come," McGrath told a House ways and means subcommittee, "when you've got to provide that men in government can have no other interests."

But the ban against outside interests, he added, must be coupled with better pay.

At present, he said, many of the men work at night—some as school teachers, some at various "menial tasks" and "some wash dishes in restaurants—they have to do it because they have families to support."

McKinney emphasized that Mr. Truman had not discussed the possibility of any "cabinet changes." Some Congress members have demanded the resignations of Attorney General McGrath, who heads the Justice department, and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, overall boss of the Internal Revenue bureau.

McKinney emphasized that Mr. Truman is gravely perturbed by the evidence of corruption and irregularities brought to light by a House investigating committee, and he told reporters:

"I'm inclined to think there will be action soon."

Washington (AP)—Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap reported yesterday that 113 officials and employees have been fired or forced to resign from the scandal beset tax service so far this year. That compares with 40 employees turned out all last year and 36 in 1949.

Dunlap brought the official toll up to date without comment, and without further details. Fewer than 50 of these ousters had been announced previously.

Allies Admit Bombing Of Kaesong Area

Pannunjom, Korea, Wednesday (AP)—The U. N. command today admitted one of its planes strayed and bombed the neutral Kaesong area yesterday morning.

The admission was made in a note given to Communist liaison officers this morning by Col. Andrew J. Kinney.

The note said: "The results of the investigation of the aerial attack at Yonung in the Kaesong area in the early morning of 11 December indicates that it was made by an aircraft of the United Nations command."

Kaesong is headquarters of the Communist truce delegation.

The note was signed by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander.

The note said the attack was the result of pilot error, and noted that no injuries to persons or material damage occurred.

Ridgway said "I am initiating appropriate disciplinary action."

Tone Fined For Spitting Episode

Beverly Hills, Calif. (AP)—For spitting in the face of a red-haired newspaperwoman, Franchot Tone was fined $400 yesterday.

He also apologized in court—"I am very sorry for what happened"—and was put on probation for a year. A 45-day jail sentence was suspended.

Florabel Muir, who writes for the New York News and the Los Angeles Mirror, was not present to hear the apology.

Libel Suit Testimony Completed

Testimony was completed yesterday in a libel suit involving George Keyes, Delaware Water Gap plumbing contractor, the plaintiff, and M. Eugene Leffler, also of that borough, defendant. Court was adjourned until this morning, however, before the jury was charged.

Only witness was Keyes, represented by F. J. Mervine, Stroudsburg. Leffler is not represented by counsel.

The case revolved around a letter, hurriedly written by Leffler, in which Keyes' ability as a plumbing contractor was questioned. Keyes claimed the defendant had written the letter to cast doubt on Keyes' competence to testify in a recent civil case.

The plumber said he had suffered the loss of three contracts because of the letter, which cost him a $600 profit.

In his closing arguments, Attorney Mervine said his client was asking damages for circulation of a letter "charging incompetence as a plumber." The letter was written last February.

Fraud Case Is Dropped

A case of fraudulent conversion held over from the September term of court was crossed off the criminal docket yesterday after District Attorney Detleff A. Hanson said the persons involved had settled the affair between them. Police had accused Jack Cancks, et al, Wilkes-Barre, of converting restaurant property into cash to pay a debt last July.

Liens Totalling $904,326 Filed Against Silk Firm

Seranton, Pa.—The Internal Revenue bureau disclosed yesterday it has filed income tax liens totalling $904,326.73 against the Baer Co., of Lehigh, Carbon county, a silk manufacturing plant and two of its officers.

A spokesman for the bureau said the liens were filed at various times during the past several weeks in Federal court here as well as in several central and eastern county courts, including Carbon, Northampton and Columbia.

Filing of the liens, the official stated, freezes the assets of the company and individuals against transfer of real estate or personal property.

An income tax lien of $395,877.33 has been filed against the silk company. Liens of $431,398.25 were filed against Carlos A. Baer and liens of $77,051.15 against Florence A. Baer. The liens cover a three-year period from 1944 through 1946 for both the company and officers.

The Internal Revenue spokesman said a conference has been scheduled with company representatives but said he was unable to state whether the talks will produce "any satisfactory solution which will enable the company to continue operations." He said he understood the plant employs several hundred persons. The spokesman did not say when the conference was scheduled.

Cattle Health Group Urges Early Tests

The Monroe County Cattle Health committee met in the Agricultural Extension office on Monday afternoon to discuss the T. B. testing of Monroe county cattle. Dr. Moyer represented the State Bureau of Animal Industry.

All of the cattle in Monroe county were tested in 1947 with no reactors being found. Dr. Moyer stated that when a county has a two-tenth per cent or less infection that county is put on a six-year basis. When the percentage of infection is between two-tenths and five-tenths per cent the county is tested every three years. Monroe county is not scheduled for a regular test until the summer of 1953.

There is a feeling among the leading dairymen of Monroe county that this six-year period is too long and this committee is going to contact the Bureau of Animal Industry at Harrisburg requesting that the test be applied to Monroe county cattle as early as possible.

The Cattle Health Committee of Monroe county is composed of seven dairymen and beef cattle owners. Those in attendance at Monday's meeting were Ray Kress, Sciota, chairman; Arlington Martin, Effort; Thomas Rogers, Stroudsburg RD 1; William Bond, Appenzell; Robert Neyhart, Shawnee; Otto Schouboe, Neola. The seventh member is Arthur Switzgale, of Brodheadsville.

Civil Court List Shrinks To 16 Cases

A formidable list of 33 civil cases up for jury hearings at this session of Monroe county court had shortened considerably by yesterday afternoon.

Prothonotary Clatide E. Metzgar said 17 of the cases have been continued to a later court term, two were settled out of court, one stricken, and two settled in yesterday's hearings.

Still on the trial list: 16 cases.

Isley Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

A plea of guilty of involuntary manslaughter was made in Monroe county court yesterday by Roy G. Isley, 29, of 15 Crystal St., East Stroudsburg.

President Judge Fred W. Davis deferred sentence until later this week. No testimony was offered. The facts probably will be presented at the time of sentencing.

Isley was charged by Pfc. James Horan, Mount Pocono State police, with being driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Willis Erving Ensminger, 76, who was walking near his Toboyanna home Oct. 21.

Isley was arrested several hours later at his home in East Stroudsburg.

Isley's case was the most serious on the criminal docket for the December court session.

Dr. L. R. Furlong will be on vacation from Dec. 3rd to Dec. 16th inclusive.—Adv.

Vernoy Sent To State Hospital

A jury of 10 men and two women found Albert Vernoy, about 50, of Cresco, guilty of sodomy after a trial yesterday in Monroe county court.

President Judge Fred W. Davis deferred sentencing, committed Vernoy to Allentown State hospital for observation and examination. Vernoy was accused of immoral relations with an 11-year-old boy.

LITTLE TALKS WITH BIG 8THOUGHTS

By IRIS HIGGINS

Everybody is chuckling about the stark of "cracked" Tim Green. Somebody saw him go into the grave yard, take off his hat and start talking.

"Dear God," he said, "I am sorry I am such a poor lot. But as you see nothing goes right. I do everything wrong. I lose my jobs. I lost my last pay. I broke my tools" . . .

Just then a bird flew over his bowed bald head and splashed upon it.

"You see what I mean God. For some people birds sing."

I am wondering if Tim is cracked as people make out. I think it is a pretty good thing to have a speaking acquaintance with the Almighty.

Bill Should Be Amended

On December 6 in Harrisburg, Senator Yosko's gambling bill was reported out of committee. Mr. Yosko is a Democrat from Northampton County.

This bill, (S.B. 837) makes it unlawful to print or otherwise produce wall charts, tip sheets, scratch sheets, book-making tickets or other items in furtherance of illegal gambling or to transport, sell or possess the same.

This newspaper cannot find too much fault with this part of the bill. All of the foregoing ties in as part of the paraphernalia required for the successful operation of horse-rooms, and other gambling rackets.

But we are decidedly against that portion of Mr. Yosko's bill which would prohibit newspapers from publishing any racing news pertaining to horse races not already run.

We assume that the assemblyman's reason for this portion of the bill he sponsors is to prevent anything which savors of "tips" which would be construed as leading potential gamblers to pick possible winners. It is probably directed more against those racing sheets designed for this purpose more than it is intended for newspapers of general circulation.

Mr. Yosko's bill does allow publication of race results by newspapers.

Nothing has ever been gained and nothing can be gained by the suppression of news. When newspapers, for instance, give a resume of important racing events, those opinions are, as a rule, from sports writers who are not writing their opinions for the benefit of the gambling fraternity. Thousands upon thousands of people who love horses but who never have placed a bet on a horse, especially through a bookie, like to read predictions of things to come and horse racing comes in this category and is legitimate news. Any effort to stifle it savors of just another blow at freedom of the press.

The State Senate yesterday was considering an amendment that would exclude newspapers of general circulation from the ban against printing of race track tips. Sen. A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield), who offered the amendment, predicted its quick approval. Let's hope so.

Shopping Spree

If you are worried about how you'll manage those after-Christmas bills, cheer up. Give a thought to our Federal Government.

The shopping spree on which the Government now is embarked will make your troubles look small.

Since the beginning of the present fiscal year (a term for a new spending period) the Government has run up a deficit of more than $7 billion—in five months!

The five-month spending runs to $25,619,739,477—27.7 per cent of which the Government didn't have. Just went in the hole.

Come to think of it, you'd better go back to worrying about the Christmas bills. They'll be easier than the headache the Government inevitably will hand you—when the day of reckoning comes.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Blanche Patch, long time secretary to George Bernard Shaw, has written her memoirs under the title of Thirty Years with G. B. S. In it she reveals, "Shaw's reluctance to step ashore into the United States was not due to any dislike of the inhabitants. He was essentially a shy being who shrank from people; yet he was attracted by the friendliness of Americans and their great sense of equality. His trick of occasional overstatement is an American trick; his gift for monologue, an American gift. He admired the American passion for trying something new, such as their reform of spelling which he himself adopted. He was all for Americans when they were breaking barriers down, and rude to them when they were setting barriers up."

In a rural school out Iowa way a young student was asked to define the word agriculture. "Agriculture," he opined with a trace of scorn, "it is a little bit like farming, only farming is really doing it."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Ed Wynn is now in his 49th year in show business—and he's in a pickle, too. If he uses gags he himself originated many years ago, he's accused of stealing others' stuff.

The material has gravitated in the meantime from Wynn. Not been stolen, he emphasizes. Not even consciously or deliberately imitated. "It's just the natural course of events," the bespectacled Perfect Fool said the other day between his "All Star Review" telecasts.

"I cover the period in show business from gas lights to picture tubes," Wynn explained, "Put me in front of any comedy program, radio or television, and I'll tell you the answers before the guy on the show gives 'em."

There's one about a 45-year-old saloon customer who brags about his powerful muscles and excellent health. The chap next to him at the bar tells what a remarkable physical specimen his grandfather was right up to the day he died at 105. The second man's clincher is: "We dug him up the other day, and he looks better than you do right now."

Wynn wrote it and told it in one of his earliest Broadway shows. It eventually turned up, he heard as the second-act curtain line of a play.

Take puns. An old vaudeville stunt of Wynn's was to invite the customers to call out their first names. Ed would toss back a spontaneous word-play: "Arthur Mometter tells me it's very cold." "Isabel necessary on a bicycle?" "I had an awful fight with Amos Keeto."

This nonsense developed 30 years later as the game "Knock, knock—who's there?"

The "JW" histatupthe asera

The "What's this?" game also grew out of one of his stage gimmicks, Ed said. Five fingers of one hand held over the upturned fingers of the other, "What's this?" "The Quints taking a shower."

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

Who Should Teach

Nearly every town has its woman's club and if I refer especially to the one in Scarsdale, New York, it is only because they have projected themselves into the controversy over American education. They objected to Rabbi Benjamin Schultz lecturing on schools and the Communist invasion of our schools without the other side being presented at the same meeting. How can there be another side of this question?

President Robert G. Sproul, of the University of California, put this issue in these words: "Historically, Americans have taken their freedom for granted. In recent years, we have learned that we were wrong—that freedom is always vulnerable. We have learned, too, that our particular kind of freedom is seriously threatened by the power philosophy of that international conspiracy mislabeled as the Communist Party—a philosophy that sterilizes the minds and distorts the morals of men, that sets class against class, brother against brother, and man against God. If this philosophy were confined to one nation, or even to a group of nations, and practiced only within their borders, it might be of little more than academic concern to us. The fact is, that the philosophy is being used as the basis of a power and propaganda drive for the creation of police states and the establishment by any means, including violence, of a new science of economics and a new form of society. . . .

As the level on which this work of the devil starts is the kindergarten and as it is carried through the entire life of our nation, it becomes increasingly important to study the schools to which we entrust our children, the textbooks they use, the methods that are employed to weaken character, lessen their bonds to tradition, and divorce them from faith in God and love for country. . . .

I read the year-book of the Scarsdale Women's Club and find a commendable organization serving the community in many aspects. Scarsdale is one of those bedroom suburbs of New York City where those who can afford to work in the big city and enjoy suburban life, buy their own homes, furnish them tastefully, carefully keep gardens and compete in homemade cuisine fancifully garnished. Such people dislike being regarded as Communists or even Left-wingers. They

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, Dec. 11 — Not every American who has been to Moscow has come back home a Communist, nor was he necessarily a Communist to start with. This is particularly true of the thousands of American college professors and teachers who journeyed to the Kremlin watering tank during the mid 1930's to absorb Soviet propaganda at Moscow university.

We hear nowadays, as Russian agents (tagged as a Russian lover, that the romance started during World War II when both Moscow and Washington had one goal in mind—kick the Germans. Maybe so, but some official Russian publications reveal that a number of American educators were displaying considerable curiosity about the Kremlin long before the shooting started in the late global fracas.

In fact, it was in 1933 that a group of American educators succumbed to Soviet bidding and organized an American advisory committee to drum up students for the Moscow university summer session. Twenty-five U. S. teachers and students of education made the pilgrimage that year. They studied for a month and then took a two-week conducted tour of the Soviet Union.

In 1934, two hundred and twelve American students, principals, professors, psychologists and social workers journeyed to Moscow for a summer session at Moscow university for Americans in 1935 and later years, but I haven't got the number or names of those who took the journey.

Soviet travel agencies in the U. S., particularly Intourist, Inc., in New York City, arranged for the tourists to get to Moscow cheap and easy. A special low rate on ocean liners was provided, along with a subsidy paid by Intourist, Inc., so the junketing professors wouldn't have to travel steerage. Times were tough in the U. S. in 1935 and relatively few other Americans were doing much traveling of any kind.

At Moscow university, instruction generally was in the English language. Translators were provided, however, when prominent Soviet leaders lectured the Americans in Russian on the finer points of Communist technique. Of course, nothing was said of the great blood purges underway in Russia at the time—at least not in the university. Since Intourist, Inc., admitted that there was "considerable fraternization among Russians and Americans" at the school we have no way of knowing how many American visitors got the unofficial facts about life in Russia at the time. Apparently not many did, since several who returned have been consistent champions of the good life under Communist dictators.

One of the required courses at Moscow university was "Principles of the Collective and Socialist Society." You couldn't take any of the other courses until you had been exposed to this one.

The idea of a Moscow university for Americans originated "as a result of an experiment conducted during the summer of 1933 by a group of American educators," Intourist, Inc., admitted in its propaganda. Naturally, Moscow did a little prodding, but apparently not much was necessary.

During the 1935 session, according to Intourist, Inc., Dr. George S. Counts and Dr. Heber Harper, professors of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, acted as advisors.

Recent testimony before the McCarran Senate Internal Security sub-committee revealed that Columbia university has had two active Communist party cells flourishing on the campus for years.

Educator John Dewey, the hero of the National Education association, was connected with Moscow university. He had a lot to say about the Soviet Union, but I don't recall his mentioning that the Kremlin is dedicated to the violent overthrow of the U. S. government by force.

object to their patriotism being questioned. Many vote Republican. Most think that they are Liberals. Mrs. Gladys F. Carroll, president of this club, wrote this paragraph as a foreword to the report:

"This year marks the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the independence of our country. It was through faith and courage that this nation was founded. The faith of our fathers is still one of our great remaining forces. Let us cherish this precious heritage."

Yet, in two recent situations, this club ranged itself on the side of ignoring the menace of the corruption of the life of our nation through Communist infiltration. It is the same puzzling phenomenon as a proposition recently made by a motion picture company, whose affairs I am investigating, that those who oppose Communism in motion pictures, limit their objections to pictures made since April 1951. Why that date? Why not any other date? If the thing is evil, does the date matter?

These puzzles require analysis. It is absurd to speak about "Park Avenue Liberals" without asking why their brand of liberalism only serves the Communists but never serves those who are fighting the Communist infiltration into our schools, or even the substitution of functional training for character building.

What is called "Progressive Education" is not in any way associated with the Communist movement, but we must note that since its introduction into our educational system, patriotism has been weakened. As the child is taught by activities rather than by precept, the virtues of our civilization are not strengthened in the child because virtue is "preachy" teaching, which these educators avoid. Actually, the child is left without a ruler.

President Sproul said: ". . . I believe that our American universities must take an affirmative attitude toward the basic American value of responsible freedom. They must be the chief protagonists of our civilization, aggressive in their defense of our traditions, and vigorous in their opposition to those who would destroy them."

It may be fascinating fun for the rich to be so liberal that they pave the way for the Communists, but it does not make sense. And most of the ladies in these woman's clubs are, in their own affairs, very sensible.

White Barns And Purple Minks

A new, glistening white barn touched off the dirtiest scandal in U. S. history — Teapot Dome. The white barn stood out on the lovely New Mexico landscape as conspicuous as the lighthouse on Montauk Point—and far more outstandingly than a purple mink coat in Washington. . . . But as barns, bribes and minks go, it proved to be one of the most expensive in history. . . . When its final price was totaled, it had cost Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall his chair in the Cabinet and given him a cot in a jail cell instead. . . . When an ordinary cattleman plows back his earnings into his ranch, that's expansion. But when a $15,000 a year Cabinet member suddenly spends $100,000 on his, that's graft.

This is the story. With the Spring buds of 1922, Washington corridors sprouted the story that Mammoth Oil Company, another name for Harry F. Sinclair, had scored a great coup. More particularly, it was whispered that the oil company had gotten the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, without public bidding, from the Secretary of the Interior. . . .

The logical questions: Why should the government be laying naval oil reserves, and why wasn't the Secretary of the Navy (instead of Interior) handling the deal? . . . Senator Kendrick, Democrat of Wyoming, wrote a case note to Sec'y Fall, asking for an explanation. There was no answer. . . . Senator Kendrick, more irritated than suspicious, had the Senate pass a resolution compelling Fall to answer. After a few weeks, Fall notified him that not only had Teapot Dome been leased to Sinclair, but that the great Elk Hills reserve in California was about to be leased to Edward L. Doheny. The reason given for the government leasing was that the oil was being drawn from these reserves by adjoining wells. Fall went on step further. He stated that naval oil reserves were a matter of national security, and that the welfare of the nation required certain secrecy.

To the Senate that sounded reasonable. That is, to all except Bob La Follette of Wisconsin. "Too plausible," he snapped—and jammed through a general investigation of naval oil leases. La Follette was too busy to conduct the investigation himself. He turned it over to Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, a gaunt, grey timberwolf of a man, who proved to be the most deliberate and relentless stalker in history of the Upper Chamber. It took him 18 months to connect the Elk Hills and Teapot Dome oil leases with Secretary Fall's new barn in New Mexico. But when he had finished, everyone knew it was $100,000 "in a little black bag."

Senator Walsh quickly established that the leases were worth over a hundred million in profits to the oil companies. . . . There is nothing intrinsically wrong with a large company making a large profit. But a New Mexico editor forwarded a note to Walsh remarking that Secretary Fall, who had been broke two years before, had built a large barn. . . . Further, remarked the editor, Fall had received a shipment of blooded, expensive cattle—and by a very remarkable coincidence, it turned out to be from Ramapo Hills, N. J., where oil millionaire Harry F. Sinclair, the beneficiary of the Teapot Dome leases, kept a stock farm!

Senator Walsh asked Fall for an explanation of his private finances. Fall had always been regarded as a tough, fighting frontiersman—a man ready to reach for his gun if his honor was challenged. . . . He delayed coming to Washington, but when he did his answer was clear and unequivocal. He had never received a cent from Doheny or Sinclair. It was humiliating to him to even suggest such a possibility. He had received a loan of $100,000 all right—but it was from the impeccable Edward B. McLean, social arbiter of Washington society, at his showplace, "Friendship."

Fall's explanation seemed logical, but Edward McLean's terrible jitters did not. . . . McLean moved heaven and earth, politically, to keep off the witness stand, but Walsh inexorably pressed in upon him. McLean pleaded he was ill and the tireless Senator agreed to question him at his home in Palm Beach. The questioning was brief. The Senator asked McLean if he had ever loaned Fall $100,000. McLean said he had. . . . Had Fall paid him back? Yes, he had. . . . How? McLean's astounding answer: "He gave me back my check!" "The Senator: 'You mean he never cashed it?' 'No, he never did' . . . 'Not cashed at any time?' . . . 'No, sir' . . . 'That is all.'"

"I decline to testify," croaked Fall. But the headline was already on the wires: "Fall Claims Constitutional Privilege" . . . Capones can rely on the Constitution; Cabinet members cannot. The public verdict of guilty was rendered before Fall left the Chamber.

Ironically, Fall was convicted of receiving Doheny's bribe, but Doheny was acquitted of giving it! As Doheny, a free man, walked down the courthouse steps, he handed his lawyer, Frank Hogan, a check for $1,000,000.

Said Sen. Walsh: "Parading of Sec'y Fall's new-found wealth led to the exposure. . . . That is, perhaps, the only way in which a white barn in New Mexico resembles a purple mink coat in Washington."

Her prospective bridegroom is only six years old.

And like all young men of his age he is liable to change his mind very quickly.

So, if the young gentleman whose name is Norman Nadel, proposes, Margaret had better accept him right away.

Next week he may have decided to forego marriage for the life of a cowboy.

This is how it came about.

When Miss Truman appeared on television with Jimmy Durante not long ago, this young son of the music critic of the Columbus, O., citizen, decided that he wanted Margaret to be his wife.

At first he didn't know whether it was she or Jimmy with whom he was smitten.

But when his father explained to him that a marriage with Durante would not be exactly suitable for a cowboy, he chose Margaret.

Ever since her television appearance Norman has been a changed boy. He behaves beautifully; he has doffed his cowboy uniform—and he is working on a letter of proposal.

However, a few days ago, his father caught him looking once again at the comic papers, so the great event may not take place after all.

It is really quite remarkable how quickly children can change their minds. Sometimes I wonder whether it wouldn't be a pretty good idea if grown-ups were equally pliable.

I keep a jar of candy in the house for the dozen or more kids in our neighborhood. It's just plain hard candy with different flavors. But some of the little sticks are pink, others red, still others yellow, some white.

One of our neighbors, little Sally, is six years old, but you should see with what care she selects her candy.

Almost every day she comes around with different kids—and every time Sally is offered the candy jar, she has developed a different taste.

Last week she would not accept the white candy. She wanted the pink and yellow stripes. This morning it was the red kind.

But when she saw that Mary Anne, a new neighbor who proudly announced that she is six months older than Sally, preferred the red and white striped piece, she made me promise her that the next time I would reserve a few red and white ones for her.

And furthermore, since she has noticed that, due to her aversion to the white sticks there are quite a few of those left in the jar, she has tried her best to sell her little brother Trippy on the great advantage of white candy.

"Take one," she said to him. "It's delicious."

Whereupon Trippy, getting suspicious, took a white piece and promptly gave it to Hilda, a new tail-less dog who has recently moved into the neighborhood and already made our home her home.

There is an old saying, "The child is father of the man." By studying children one can get a pretty good idea of what moves men—and women.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The NLRB On Christmas

It is not pleasant to lose a Christmas bonus. Nevertheless a recent ruling of the NLRB in a labor dispute that a bonus paid over a period of years cannot be cut or ended "without regular bargaining procedures" seems one for the book. Suppose the idea spreads? When a man shakes the Christmas tree from now on will it be regarded as a commitment? Can the sock on the mantel become entangled with the Taft-Hartley act? Are the journeys of Rudie the Red-nosed Reindeer to become subject to Federal mediators?

Should Santa show up with Donner and Blitzen missing, can he be held in violation of a contract to use eight reindeer? Will the sleigh immediately behind Santa be occupied by legal advisors? Can Bob Cratchit, Tiny Tim and the corner poultryman save Scrooge if he sends the smaller turkey? Suppose we fail to send Mrs. Twizzle the Christmas card we have been mailing for the twenty years. . . . Can she get the NLRB to rule that she is entitled to it?

The Christmas bonus used to be regarded as a gesture of generosity in boom times, subject to change without notice. It was accepted as entitling the boss to a long cheer. The National Labor Relations Board has ruled that it can be regarded as a contractual commitment, or nearly so. It declares that, once the staff has become accustomed to a Yuletide bonus, the boss can't cut it out or lower it without thrashing it out with the union over the bargaining table. "The bonus is deferred compensation for services already performed," said three members, constituting a majority. Dissenting members of the NLRB declared that the Christmas bonus should retain the spirit of Dickens' Christmas Carol and never be made a bargaining matter. "If the boss has to get permission to terminate a Christmas gift, must he not ask special consent to give one?" one member asked. He has a point there.

One immediate prospect is that the Christmas bonus custom will take a body blow so far as first-timers are concerned and that a lot of companies planning to play Santa this year have already put the white washers back into the trunk and sent the Kris Kringle costume to their counsel asking for an opinion whether they are incurring a liability by keeping it around the premises.

We look for curious developments as a result of the NLRB ruling. . . . The Christmas stocking as Exhibit A in an industrial dispute. . . . pickets waving an "Unfair" banner at a retired Christmas carol singer. . . . Clement Moore denounced for making the poem too short. . . . the wife demanding the same check she got last year. . . . Junior staging a walkout because we gave him a bicycle last year and only roller skates this Christmas.

What concerns us especially is the apartment house elevator man. Having given him $10 for the past six Christmases, will he take $8 this year or go to Washington for a ruling?

We have spent days studying pictures of the sculptures awarded top prizes in the recent Metropolitan Museum of Art's prize contest and are still groggy. First prize, $3,500, went to a study called "Two Men" and to us it looked like something done by Junior to represent a composite study of Jimmy Durante, "One Eye" Connelly and Harry the Horse. Second prize of $2,500, was "Animal Form," out of which we could only make a peccary trying to palm itself off as a Hubbard squash. Third award of $1,500, went to "Striding Man" and we can't locate a man anywhere in it, although it seemed a very good carving of an umbrella stand in the last stages of corrosion. The fourth prize winner, which took down only $1,000, was just called "Eye." It looked like Eye, and we can't see how it got into the money.

Unconvincing Video Studios! Kate Smith singing "I Want You in My Arms."

If comic books featuring crime are barred, as urged by legislative bodies, what will the sellers of switch-blade knives, daggers and other small arms do for a living?

Adrian W. DeWind is associate counsel to the Senate sub-committee probing the latest Washington scandal. We hear that a fellow ousted as a result of the exposures is working on a book to be called "Gone with DeWind."

Improvements Completed At "Y" Building

John R. Wilson, general secretary of the Monroe County YMCA, informed a meeting of the directors at the Wyckoff tearoom last night that improvements and repairs about the building had been completed and the program of activities is now in progress without interruptions.

He reported the new fluorescent lighting a big improvement to the main lounge of the building and the new color scheme warm and cheerful.

Secretary Wilson said the Leaders council had reorganized for the year with Samuel Russell, Stroudsburg High school, as president. The council is engaged in raising the $450 pledge for the World Service fund. Much interest is being shown by the group, Wilson said.

Success of the Biddy basketball project sponsored by the Lions club was brought out. There are six teams of eight members each, all Y members. There are also two adult and one high school basketball leagues in operation, also a volleyball league.

Business and professional men gather Thursday afternoons for meetings. The craft shop is operating nicely, Mr. Wilson said, many of the boys being engaged in making articles of their own design as Christmas gifts. Bowling is on the increase.

The Bible Study group is making fine progress. Wilson's report pointed out, and plans are in the making by the members for a Christmas party for their parents, date to be announced.

The women's groups, the Auxiliary, Mothers' club and Gradale sorority were all reported as being active and progressive. Efforts are being made to form a unit of the Gradale group at Mount Pocono.

Grateful acknowledgment was made for the gift of an electric clock by George Stoekel, jeweler, which has been placed in the gymnasium.

The annual election of directors will take place the second Tuesday in January when nine members of the board will be chosen for three-year terms. Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, chairman of the nominating committee, recommended the following: Arlington W. Williams, Edward C. Hess, A. J. Zabriskie, F. L. Stackhouse, Theodore Hoffman, Mrs. Beatrice Toewe, Thomas Kistler, Harry Kresge, T. J. Kitson and William D. Hawn.

Mrs. W. Doby Palmer and George T. Robinson, present members of the board, were not candidates for reelection.

There were remarks concerning the special 100th anniversary celebration of the organization of the Y in the United States held recently at the Liberty High school, Bethlehem. Approximately 60 were in attendance from Stroudsburg, reportedly the largest group from any one place. They included

THE NATIVITY RETOLD — The pageantry and simplicity of the story of Christ's birth was retold in a movingly faithful interpretation by young people of the East Stroudsburg Methodist church this week. In a pageant titled "The Star Still Shines" the members of the church staged five scenes based upon the Biblical account of Jesus' birth. In addition to those shown above, over 100 other young people—from the youth choir, the chapel choir and the altar choir—participated in the program. The choirs provided choral background for the reenactment of the Nativity scenes. Rev. Harold C. Eaton is pastor of the church. (Daily Record photo)

Juries Return Verdicts For Plaintiffs

Monroe county petit jury in a directed verdict yesterday awarded damages of $175 to William Murray, Mount Pocono, plaintiff in a suit against Harrison W. Moyer, Long Pond.

Murray was represented by L. A. Achterman, Stroudsburg, and Moyer by F. J. Mervine, Stroudsburg.

In another directed verdict, a petit jury found for an Allentown engineering firm in the sum of $287.50, with costs subject to agreement between Achterman, as plaintiff's counsel, and C. D. Shull, one of the defendant's counsel.

Defendant in the suit was Camp Tanalo Inc., near Henryville; plaintiff was the firm of A. L. Weisenberger Associates.

VFW Post To Participate In Number Of Campaigns

At a meeting last night of Thomas P. Lambert Post, No. 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, members agreed unanimously to participate in numerous campaigns for less fortunate members of the society in which they live.

In addition to several organized efforts within their own post during the Christmas season, the VFW members and their wives will contribute financially to the VFW National home Christmas party for the underprivileged and the annual Christmas party sponsored by Scotland School for orphans in this state.

The local VFW Christmas party for underprivileged children will be held December 22 at the post home. Entertainment and refreshments will be furnished by the veterans and the auxiliary.

One of the biggest items on the post's seasonal agenda is the mailing of Christmas boxes to its members who are now serving in the armed forces. This year, as in the past, boxes of food and clothing will also be distributed in this area to needy families by the Post and Auxiliary Welfare committee.

As another gesture of recognition to the added service of men who are currently serving in the armed forces, the post voted to pay the dues of those men called back into service during the past year.

According to Commander Franklin E. Weller, last night's meeting was "an extremely active one." At the meeting post members also voted to sponsor a "VFW basketball team" in the industrial league. In conjunction with a national campaign, the local veterans post decided to back financially and assist in sponsoring the local "employ the physically handicapped

Girl Leaves Jail, Goes To Newark

A 15-year-old girl was released from Monroe county jail yesterday for return to Newark, N.J. She had been held in jail since she and her boy friend wrecked a car trying to escape police Saturday.

Her fiancé, Paul R. Shipp, 21, Wilkes-Barre, had been sentenced to three days in the county jail for going through a stop sign on Route 115 at McElhenny.

The sentence, by Justice of the Peace Luther R. Dorshimer, Brodheadsville, was in default of a $5 fine.

Brookheadsville State police have reported the car the couple was driving as stolen from a Maryland man. State police pursued the pair after seeing Shipp drive through the stop sign.

A two-mile chase followed, and the Shipp auto went off the highway and overturned. Neither he nor the girl was injured. They told police later they had been on their way to Newark to get married.

Police said the FBI has been called into the case in connection with the stolen car.

Shark Hunter To Speak At High School

Landlubbers and nautical novices with a curiosity concerning the "tiger of the sea"—the man-eating shark—may have their questions answered at an East Stroudsburg High school assembly in the school auditorium at 1:45 p. m. Thursday.

At that time Capt. William E. Young, nationally-known authority on the adventurous life of the shark and author of one book on the subject, will answer such questions as "Does the shark attack human beings?" "Are there harmless sharks?" and "What part did the shark play in World War Two?"

For the benefit of students of the school a two-reel, 16 mm. silent motion picture, "Tigers of the Sea" will be shown at the assembly. The movie is a "33-year odyssey of a pioneer shark hunter." Captain Young will also deliver his own personal comments on the art of "shark hunting" and will answer questions put to him by the audience.

According to advance publicity, one of the questions to be answered by Young during the course of his talk is the all-important: "Do sharks have to turn on their sides to bite?"

Picture of a man making a smart decision

HERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflow Drive® is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

Moral: Smart Buy's Buick—right now.

Suggestions Offered For Closing Home

Careful precautions taken when closing the summer vacation home will prevent damage by weather, vandals and rodents.

The plumbing should be arranged so that all pipes can be drained by closing two or three valves and opening others. If steam or hot water heat is used, the entire system should be drained from the toilet bowl and drained from plumbing traps. In mild climates, kerosene or anti-freeze can be added to the bowl and traps, thus avoiding drainage.

Provide solid, heavy board panels to fit tightly over windows and doors and bolt them on the inside. For the front door, use a solid panel that is fastened with a strong padlock.

The house should have sufficient grilles and vents to allow air to circulate and prevent dampness from accumulating. All flues, vents and louvers should be covered with both fine and heavy screening to keep out insects and animals.

The Croydon is designed for a narrow lot. It has simple rectangular lines, a low roof and wide eaves. It features three bedrooms.

The front entrance vestibule and coat closet form a dining alcove. This provides the living room with cross ventilation and light. There is also dining space in the kitchen. Storage cabinets are above the table in the kitchen. The Croydon's side entrance leads directly to the full basement. All of the Croydon's rooms open into one hall.

This hall has a general storage closet, a linen closet and a clothes chute. The bedrooms are equipped with double-door wardrobes that are arranged to give ceiling-high storage space.

The Croydon's plans call for frame construction with siding or shingle exterior walls and an asphalt shingle covered roof. Concrete masonry or brick veneer can easily be substituted for the exterior walls, if preferred.

Overall dimensions of The Croydon are 28 feet by 40 feet. The floor area is 1120 square feet and there is a volume of 21,280 cubic feet.

Simplicity Makes Home More Livable

The "hominess" of the average house can be increased, and at the same time its market value may be raised, by adding relatively inexpensive features which, although simple devices, can become so important that living in the home will revolve around them.

While the fireplace is usually the focal point of the living room, in many of the older types of houses it is often dingy and unattractive. Modern decorators have devised means of brightening them through the use of paint, new mantels, or large mirrors.

Another way to style a living room is through installing a large "picture window." A large window allowing a clear, undistorted view of the landscape tends to bring the out-of-doors into the house and form a large living picture. Frequently, its effect is to turn an otherwise undistinguished house into a showplace, while at the same time providing additional natural light.

My Kitchen has white tile to the ceiling with a border of small red diamonds about half-way up. The floor is covered with a red, white and gray block design. What colors in wallpaper or paint do you suggest for the dropped ceiling of the kitchen and walls of an adjoining breakfast room? Please suggest colors for curtains and leather covers on built-in benches.

I suggest painting the ceilings of kitchen and breakfast room Wedgewood blue and papering the walls of the breakfast room with a pattern in red and white on a Wedgewood blue background. Red would be a good color for the leather bench covers and white edged with red wool ball fringe for the curtains.

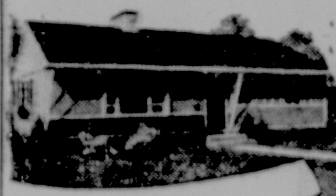

How can I make a bedroom more cozy? It is very large and looks bare. The wallpaper is gray with a floral pattern in green, white, pink and yellow; woodwork is white, and furniture maple. What color bedspread and vanity skirt would you suggest? Also what color should I paint a sewing machine and chair?

For your bedspread I suggest rose and for the vanity skirt, green organza trimmed with yellow daisies. Green would also be a good color to paint the sewing machine and chair.

I have a very dark room with long and narrow windows and dark woodwork. Will you please suggest colors for walls, rug, drapes and slipcovers to brighten up the room?

I suggest: walls, aqua; rug,

Bay Windows Stage Comeback

Along with its old contemporaries, the bustle and the hobble skirt, the bay window is coming back. In the field of house styling, builders report, more and more families planning homes are calling for bays or bow windows in living and dining rooms, especially in cases where the rooms are small.

Contractors explain that while a bay window actually adds a little usable floor area to a room, it creates an illusion of spaciousness and contributes to the attractiveness of both the interior and exterior of the house.

When provided for in the original plans, a bay window is not an expensive feature, builders say.

Putty Useful In Many Jobs

Putty is generally associated in the layman's mind with the glazing of window sash, but to the painter it means a very handy material for a variety of jobs—filling nail holes, filling cracks in upright wood surfaces, filling floor cracks, filling rough spots on sawed-off board ends, etc.

Light Colored Tiles

For the first time, asphalt tiles in a light yellow, green and a bright red are available. Until now the tiles, popular for radiant-heated, one-floor houses, have been available only in dark colors. To achieve the new light colors the manufacturer has added more vinyl resins as a binder.

Electrical Protection

Fuses and circuit-breakers protect the house from fire caused by short-circuits or overloaded wiring. Mineral wool insulation within the walls further reduces danger of such fire because it muffles sparks.

Paint Stained Shingles

Wood shingles that have been treated with a creosote stain can be painted but it is necessary first to give them a coat of aluminum paint. This will set as a seal and prevent the creosote from bleeding through the oil paint.

Surface Must Be Clean

When paint-and-varnish remover has been used on a surface to remove the old coating entirely, the surface should then be cleaned thoroughly with turpentine, mineral spirits or wax remover and subsequently treated as a previously uncoated surface.

Cost Of Heat Plant

The cost of installing the average home heating system represents from 6 to 10 per cent of the total construction cost of the house.

Strain-Worry Getting You Down

Iron-Iodine Starved Blood and Glands Leave Thousands Feeling "Only Half-Alive"

If you have been ill, ailing, out of condition or low-spirited and possibly because you fail to get sufficient Vitamins and Iron from the food you eat, you do not "come back" as quickly as you should—you owe it to yourself to get a bottle of the new Iodine-Iron-Vitamin reconstructive tonic known as FERRIZAN.

Do not confuse Ferrizan with old-fashioned liquid Iron tonics. Ferrizan is more than a tonic, it is a truly modern Dietary Supplement that, because of its Iodine content, does infinitely more than either Iron or Vitamins alone or in combination. Nerves should be steadier—eyes brighter—appetite back—physically and mentally more alert—your outlook on life much more optimistic.

Correct Names Listed

In its account of the funeral services for Ralph H. Banks, late of Panther, Pa., The Record inadvertently listed incorrect spellings for the names of two pallbearers. The name of Leonard Heberling was included as Leon Heberling and Friend Uhl was listed in the account as Fred Uhl.

Salem, Ore. is the Pacific Northwest's largest fruit and vegetable canning center with 12 packing plants that turn out over five million cases a year.

Wonder and awe seem to mingle on the face of this chubby little fellow as he pauses near Santa's throne to be photographed with the venerable old Saint of the Yuletide. In years to come, this will be one of the most precious pictures in the family album, serving always to recall some of the holly-and-mistletoe magic of this particular Christmas when untold faith shone from a child's eyes.

Santa is on his throne in Wyckoff's Toyland daily from now until Christmas, and a photographer will be in constant attendance to capture these unforgettable moments of your child's life. Photographs are $1.00 each. —Adv.

Pocono Garden Club Closes Year At Christmas Banquet

Tannersville—The Pocono Garden club, climaxed its club year with a Christmas banquet at Rhodes' Mountain Inn, Scotrun, had seventy-five members and their husbands out to pay tribute to Mrs. B. H. Granacher, retiring president, and to enjoy the program planned by Mrs. Ruth Learn, and the decorations arranged by Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr.

The turkey dinner was served in the coffee shop, with each place marked by pipe-cleaner sign-posts bearing the name of the guest, and programs whose covers were Christmas cards. The invocation was given by Rev. Garnet Zimmerman.

Mrs. B. H. Granacher in closing her two-year term of office thanked the members who had worked so faithfully with her for the success of the club. She presented the official gavel to the new president, Mrs. Millard Rice.

Mrs. Robert Stadden on behalf of the club presented Mrs. Granacher with a gift—through an original poem listing both the triumphs and the headaches of the past two years in the club's life.

The entertainment was held in the lounge of the Mountain Inn with Mrs. Learn introducing the numbers, which opened with Christmas carols by the group with Miss Harriet Learn as accompanist. A string trio composed of Carmen Cavuto, cellist; Lettie Wood, violinist; and Harriet Learn, pianist played de Boiss-deff's "On the Bank of a Brook" and two vocal solos: "The Gift" and "Toyland" sung by Elinor Beecher. Lettie Wood played a violin solo from "Thais" by Massenet, with Hilda Robbins as her accompanist.

An original skit with the scene laid in the Bartonville station of the old W. E. and E. railroad starred Mrs. Samuel Dunbar as the station agent; Mrs. Elsie Besecker as "Pop"; Mrs. Alma Detrick as "Mom"; and Dorothy Helke, Keturah Hartman, Vera Walters, Emma Dunbar and Henrietta Bond as the children, all of them in costumes of the period. Their hilarious skit led up to the arrival of Santa Claus in the person of Mrs. A. H. Matthieson who presented gifts not only to the cast but also to all the members and their guests present.

An exhibit of Christmas arrangements: Wreaths, doorway decorations, gift wrappings and table and mantelpiece arrangements, was held in connection with the program. Mrs. Daisy Allegar won first place on points; Mrs. Stanley Hartman, second; and Mrs. Haviland Heller and Mrs. Samuel Dunbar tied for third.

The executive board will meet at 1 p.m. In addition to other new chairmen announced previously, Mrs. Alphonse Meyers is chairman of government.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Bright as reflections in miniature on the ornaments on a Christmas tree are the memories of yesterday's parties.

Would take a misty blue ball to reflect the listening faces of the women at the General Hospital auxiliary, intent as children on the story Mrs. Merlin Rutt was telling.

Would take a lavender ball to tell the story of the children of Music club members grouped around Mrs. Harry Miller for their songs and stories.

And a couple of big red ones to reflect back the laughter and good fellowship at the Pocono Garden club dinner.

But with all the balls set swinging, no reflection is whole and complete—just bright flashes of light illuminating individual scenes—

Walt Wyckoff's three-dimensional picture on his mother's tea table—the Decenettes coming all fresh and frosty into the candlelit dimness at the auxiliary tea—

Nora Stadden's tribute in poetry to Mrs. Granacher and the feeling that its sentiments were shared so warmly by all the Garden Club members.

Finally being able to fit Mrs. William Clugston's familiar, friendly voice with features after all these years of wondering.

The smell of the Russian tea at the Music club and the pleasant sight of girls—little and big—in party finery. Surely no Christmas tree was ever so brilliant—if we just don't tip the whole thing over in our effort to see it all at once.

Circle 6 Thursday

Circle 6 of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service, of which Mrs. Clarence Plattenburg is chairman will meet at the home of Mrs. James Strunk, 435 North Courtland St., East Stroudsburg on Thursday night at 8 p.m.

Families In Music Club's Big Program

The theme of "Christmas at Home" was developed in a pleasant fireside scene at the Music Study club meeting last night at the Stroud Community House with Mrs. Harry Miller as the grandmother around whom the music club family, old and young, gathered for an informal Christmas program.

Mrs. Dreher wove the numbers into a connected whole with her readings. Mrs. John MacDonald, accompanied by Miss Bess Gardner sang "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" and "The Christmas Candles". Mrs. Loring Cramer presented her young daughters, Melissa and Mary, who sang "Jolly Santa Claus".

Mrs. Rayman Herman accompanied her daughter, Charlotte in two cello solos, "Cabinata" by Raft and "Intermezzo" by Masagnl. Mrs. James Toner sang "The Virgin's Lullaby," Buck, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Ott.

Mrs. Henry Bauman played a violin solo, "Star of the East", Kennedy, accompanied by her daughter, Hildegarde, who also played a piano solo, "La Fontaine," Bohm.

Mary Jane Hintze, with her mother, Mrs. Elwood Hintze, at the piano, sang "Mother Mary's Carol"; Mrs. Nelson Frantz and Miss Bess Gardner played a two-piano number, "Valse Triste" by Sabelius; and Sandra Kresge, Diana Lee and Jane Ann Marshall formed a trio to sing "In Bethlehem's Lovely Manger" and "At the Manger" with Mrs. Samuel Lee as accompanist.

Mrs. Merlyn Rutt played for her daughter, Patsy, who sang "Away in a Manger" and Marylyn Rutt read "Granny Glitten's Mittens".

The program ended with three songs by the sextette composed of Mrs. Edward Hess, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Harold Hosier, Mrs. Howard DeNike, and Miss Frances Everitt, directed by Mrs. John A. LeBar, and accompanied by Mrs. Kennard Lewis.

Mrs. Hess and Mrs. Edgar Powell were co-chairmen of the program committee and Miss Elizabeth Martin of the hostess committee assisted by Mrs. Melvin Shook, Mrs. Arthur Helmes and Mrs. John A. LeBar poured the Russian tea served with Christmas cookies and cakes from a table decorated with angels and candles.

Story, Music At Party Of Hospital Aux.

The home of Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff on Thomas St., was the scene of the annual Christmas tea of the Woman's auxiliary of the General hospital for the members and their guests.

Mrs. George Hauser, president, during the business meeting urged members to support of the blood donor program, and of the coming Community chorus opera for the benefit of the hospital. Tickets were distributed at the meeting.

Emphasis of the meeting, however, was on the program which was introduced by Mrs. Merlyn Rutt giving a reading of a grandmother's Christmas.

The Decenettes of Stroudsburg High school under the direction of Numa Snyder sang a group of Christmas songs. Nancy Rockwell joined the group of ten girls; Pauline Repsher, Pat Bartholomew, Sandra Bolich, Ann Nitrauer, Marian Williams, Clara Lou Harl, Jackie James, Marilyn Learn and Martha Yost with Ruth Fetherman as accompanist.

Following the program a Christmas tea was served with Mrs. Harry Albert and Mrs. Frank French presiding at the tea table, decorated with a small untrimmed Christmas tree flanked by antique fruit bowls filled with bright ornaments and connected by ropes of tiny ornaments. Mrs. Roy Houser and Mrs. Henry Tucker assisted Mrs. Wyckoff in serving.

Christmas Tea For Home Ec Groups

The annual Christmas tea of the home economics groups of the entire county will be held on Thursday afternoon at the YMCA in Stroudsburg, it was announced last night by Miss Margaret MacLaren, who instructs the groups.

The party will be held from 2 to 4, and will feature exhibits of Christmas gifts and decorations and demonstrations.

In the words of the song, here I sat with "time on my hands and you on my mind," wondering what we'd talk about this morning, when someone happened by humming, "I Didn't Know What Time It Was." Well, it occurred to me that time must be a pretty important thing, so why not consider it as a possible Christmas gift?

In hasty pursuit of this idea, I scurried over to the electric shop to peek at clocks on Frigidaire electric stoves. Now these clocks really do know what time it is... they go on when they're told, and off when they're supposed to, automatically timing the roast or bread pudding while Mother plays bridge. Electric stoves aren't expensive either. According to Blanche Mackey, those of Frigidaire make with the automatic oven control start at $223.75. There are, of course, less expensive models, without this feature.

Next I stopped to look at the hour glasses in housewares. Set in clear lucite these are 45c. In heavy plastic they are 49c and encased in DuPont lucite acrylite plastic, extra-heavy and durable, they are $1.15. There's no excuse for letting eggs get too hard... or for running overtime on a three-minute long distance call. These little gadgets know, too, what time it is!

Over in jewelry, Edna Harmon had a lot to say about time. She showed us the beautiful anniversary clocks that need winding only once every 400 days. Imported from Germany and set in glass globes, they are priced at $35 for copper or ivory, and $33.50 for brass with cloisonne face. Telechron, General Electric, Sessions, and Westclox electric clocks sell from $4.25 to $32, plus tax. These come in alarm, occasional or kitchen styles. There are also folding travel clocks.

Some clocks have planters attached for ivy; others have faces of plaid. Sessions has just created a Shadobox set, with two shadow boxes the same size and shape as the clock, that can be used on adjacent walls for knick knacks. And Telechron gives us an adaptable clock, set in rectangular glass, which is actually a frame for a piece of your wall paper, family pictures, or anything you wish to insert. This is $9.95. You can know what time it is... even to the last split fashion-wise second, with something new in clocks.

Civil Case To Reach Jury Today

A civil case resulting from a 1949 collision on Route 611 south of Stroudsburg will go to a petit jury in Monroe county court this morning.

Testimony was completed yesterday before President Judge Clarence E. Bodie, Honesdale, 22nd district jurist, and Associate Judge Homer Shupp.

The case—Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Reisher, Brooklyn, N. Y., versus Jules A. and Rose A. Steinberg, operators of Pocono Supply Co., Stroudsburg, a food distributing firm, with Sigmund Reisher as additional defendant—started in the morning.

Counsel on both sides had made closing arguments before Judge Bodie recessed court. He will make his charge to the jury at 9:30 a. m. today.

Both sides agreed the collision occurred about 11 a. m. Aug. 6, 1949, between Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsburg.

Cornelius Pentland, E. Stroudsburg, testified as driver of a truck owned by Pocono Supply Co., which collided with a pleasure car driven by Reisher. Mrs. Reisher was a passenger at the time.

Testimony disclosed the Reishers were coming from Dingmans Ferry and at the accident scene made inquiries about overnight cabins. Reisher testified he then drove his halted car from the right of the highway across to the left, planning to drive into the entranceway of the cabin lot.

Driver Pentland said he was unable to brake the truck in time to avoid colliding with the Reisher car.

Lions Club Devotes Entire Program To Entertainment

Stroudsburg Lions, in their pre-Christmas session last night in the Penn-Stroud ballroom, inaugurated a new type of entertainment called "return of vaudeville," the entire program being devoted to entertainment numbers. President T. Manning Curtis and Sam Everett assisted the program committee in arranging the numbers.

Under the leadership of Robert Haigh, the entire club took part in the first number, which was chorus singing, "White Christmas" and "Grandfather's Clock" being sung. Club Pianist Douglas Gordon presented a piano solo, employing difficult numbers.

Misses Mary Frances Frankenhoff and Ann Shafer presented dance numbers. The duo first presented a tap dance to "Swanee River." Miss Shafer did a lively Irish jig and Miss Frankenhoff a toe dance to "Skaters' Waltz."

Mrs. Madelyn Maloney sang two soprano numbers with Douglas Gordon as her piano accompanist. They were "Homing" and "No Candle Was There and No Fire."

Miss Lynne Slaboski gave a reading "The Littlest Angel." Donald Blasko, violinist, played "Solveig Song," "Ave Maria" and a medley of four famous Christmas carols.

In the business section Dr. M. J. Leiner again appealed for donations to the blood bank. A number of Lions have already signed the necessary pledge cards.

Dick Groner said that many dolls destined to be given to underprivileged children for Christmas have been dressed, but there are still some remaining. These he turned over to members at the close of the meeting. Distribution will be on December 24. He announced plans for packing the Christmas toys, which will be done at the municipal building.

Mr. Heller reported on the bowling season.

Emerson Rahn reported on the Lions' children's party which will

DiMaggio Hangs Up Spikes As Player

By Joe Reichler

New York (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, who ranks beside Ty Cobb and "Babe" Ruth, as one of the greatest of all ball players, announced his retirement from baseball yesterday.

While it was not a complete surprise, the announcement came as a shock to the nation's fans.

Joe DiMaggio

who long had thrilled to the batting and fielding exploits of the brilliant New York Yankee outfielder.

DiMaggio, at a specially arranged news conference in the plush Yankee offices before newsreel and television cameras, said he never would do a baseball uniform again. He said he never had entertained managerial or coaching ambitions and probably would accept a job with the Yankee organization as a television broadcaster.

It is expected that DiMaggio, who collected $704,769.71 during 13 years playing with the club, would take the post of TV commentator of the Yankees' home baseball games. That post, left vacant when "Dizzy" Dean transferred to St. Louis to broadcast the Browns' games, reportedly will bring $50,000 a season.

DiMaggio, 37 years old last November 25, said a series of injuries and mishaps which hampered him throughout his brilliant major league career, all of it with the Yankees, prompted his decision to quit.

"I knew I was beginning to slip as far back as three years ago,"

DiMaggio said. "The old timing was beginning to leave me and my reflexes were beginning to slow up."

"I began to think seriously of retiring last spring," he added. "By the end of the season I had made up my mind definitely. It had become a chore for me to play. I found it difficult getting out of bed in the morning, especially after a night game. I was full of aches and pains."

"By the end of the season, I had made up my mind definitely. I told Dan Topping (Yankee president) of my decision to quit. He asked me to think it over for a couple of months. Out of deference to Dan, I did as he asked."

"But I never wavered in my decision. Nothing happened during those two months to make me change my mind."

To Miss Game
DiMaggio said he knew he was going to miss the game but that he did not feel badly about that.

"Right now I feel wonderful," he said with a grin. "But I cannot forget those tortuous days and nights of agony. No, I've played my last game of ball and I have no regrets. I feel that I have reached the stage where I can no longer produce for my club, my manager, my teammates and my fans."

"I had a poor year in 1951. But even had I batted .350, this would have been the last year for me. When baseball is no longer fun, it's no longer a game."

DiMaggio spent an hour posing for the cameras. He was flanked on each side by his bosses, Yankee co-owners Del Webb and Topping.

"I was hopeful until as late as Monday that Joe would change his mind," said Topping. "This is a sad day for the Yankees and a sad day for baseball. DiMaggio ranks along with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig as the greatest players in Yankee history."

"There will always be a place for DiMaggio with the Yankees," added Webb. "We have offered him several propositions, including the television post. Joe hasn't made up his mind which one to accept."

DiMaggio, who is scheduled to return to his home in San Francisco on Friday, said he expects to make his decision some time next week.

Stanky Signs Two-Year Pact As Manager Of Cardinals

St. Louis, (AP)—Eddie Stanky, fiery New York Giant second baseman, signed a two-year contract as manager with the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday.

Stanky came to an agreement with Cardinal Owner Fred Saigh after a conference here which lasted nearly three hours. No salary figures were mentioned but it was understood that Stanky would get around $37,000 a year.

Saigh said Stanky had been signed as a playing manager. Stanky sidestepped the question of what he would do about "Red" Schoendienst, one of the top second basemen in the business, by saying they would get around to that when spring training comes.

The Cardinals had to give up veteran left-handed pitcher Max Lanier and outfielder "Chuck" Diering for the peppery little second baseman who last season fused the amazing Giant pennant drive at the season's finish.

When asked about salary, Stanky said, "I only hope Santa Claus makes my three kids as happy on Christmas morning as Mr. Saigh has made me today."

That brought a smile from Saigh and a "that was very nice Eddie. Not many fellows say that about me these days."

Succeeds Marion
Stanky succeeds Marty Marion as manager of the Cardinals. Marion was eased out recently after ter leading the Redbirds to third place in his first year at the helm. Saigh let it be known that he didn't think Marion, who gained the name of Mr. Shortstop in his 11 years with the Cards, was aggressive enough.

Eddie Stanky

Diehm Plan Clears Senate Committee

Harrisburg (AP)—The Senate Reapportionment committee yesterday approved the Diehm plan for reapportionment of Pennsylvania's congressional district.

Vice Chairman A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield) emphasized, however, the legislation was subject to change during its passage through the General Assembly.

Sponsored by Sen. G. Graybill Diehm (R-Lancaster), the bill calls for reducing the State's congressional delegation from 33 to 30 by eliminating two Republican seats and one Democratic place.

Rep. Vera Buchanan, McKeesport, would be the Democrat to lose her seat under the legislation.

A Republican district now represented by Rep. Joseph L. Carrigg, Susquehanna, would be wiped out in northeastern Pennsylvania. Pike and Wayne counties would be added to the Monroe-Carbon-Northampton districts.

The third, out would see consolidation of the district now held by Reps. Richard L. Simpson, Huntingdon, and Alvin R. Bush, Muncy. Under the plan, these two Republicans would be pitted against each other if both would seek re-election next year.

Youth Center Reports Large Membership

In its fifth week in operation the American Legion Youth center, on Washington St., East Stroudsburg, topped the 500 mark in membership.

The center — a non-profit organization — has been open each Saturday night since its official opening the first Saturday in November.

At first the center operated on a policy of round dancing, exclusively. A square dance held December 1 proved so successful, however, that plans are currently pending to hold one, and perhaps two, square dance nights per month.

Membership in the center is open to all teen-agers in the area.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
